

Insurance: Household contents insurance

The value of everything you have in your home is often underestimated. Imagine you had to replace everything in your home at once after a total loss, e.g. due to a fire. This can quickly become very expensive. In these situations, household contents insurance would help.

Household contents insurance is essential as it protects against financial burdens caused by burglary, fire, water damage and natural disasters.

Without this cover, you would have to bear the cost of replacing or repairing personal property yourself.

Examples:

- Furnishings
- Electronics
- Jewellery
- and other valuables that would not be protected against damage without insurance.

This can lead to considerable financial burdens. Household contents insurance therefore offers crucial financial protection and makes it easier to cope with unexpected losses.

Special tip!

You can find information on household contents insurance on the usual comparison portals or from your individual contact person at your insurance company.
